East Bay Parks defends land buying binge

"When I was in high school in the late Thirties, Tilden Park was considered a long way out of town.

"Now, it's an oasis surrounded by 1.5 million people."

Tilden Park in Berkeley is one of the oldest and most thoroughly developed of East Bay Regional Park District's 32 regional parklands. And Richard Trudeau, EBRPD general manager, defends the big park district's recent land acquisitions on the grounds they are as farsighted as the purchase of Tilden Park was 40 years ago.

The park district has just announced a string of major purchases in the Valley area: the 400 - acre estate of Margaret Rowelle south of Del Valle Regional Park; Morgan Territory Preserve north of Livermore; Mission Peak; and Camp Parks property off Tassajara Road.

Not to mention the already developed Shadow Cliffs Park in Pleasanton and Sunol Regional Wilderness. In San Ramon, a large parcel is being added to Las Trampas Regional Park .

The land-buying spurt has aroused criticism from some Valley residents who want to know why usable ranch land, far from any population centers, should be snapped up by EBRPD ... only to be held in "land bank" status, the public kept out and the land leased back to ranchers for grazing.

The Rowell ranch, for example, is seen by some as remote, rugged and unbuildable.

"EBRPD isn't helping to preserve it," criticizes Dagmar Fulton of Pleasanton. "There's no way you could develop that land. It will always be a ranch — that's all you can use it for."

In defense, Trudeau and Hulet Hornbeck, the park district's chief of land acquisition, say the purchase, at $175 an acre, will be a farsighted way to preserve rugged country. The property includes a peak almost as high as Mt. Diablo, headwaters of four creeks, and habitats of many wild animals including golden eagles and mountain lions.

The purchase is expected to be approved at the EBRPD board of directors' July 6 meeting.

Trudeau considers the Rowell ranch and other purchases examples of "beautiful, pristine wilderness" that need to be made available for future campers and hikers.

But EBRPD's definition of "wilderness" is their own, and relates mainly to size (at least 3,000 acres) and absence of development except for "narrow low-use roads."

Asked whether a cattle range could be considered "wilderness," Hornbeck pointed out the area used to be grazed by elk before settlers brought in cattle.

Questioned about ecological changes that come from cattle grazing, Hornbeck felt, "Everything's a matter of degree You really can't go home again."

Trudeau added of cattle ranges, "It fits our definition" of a wilderness and there are virtually no lands left in the United States that are completely untouched.

The park district has two controls: a board of five directors who have to set policy and approve major moves, and voters who must approve all new taxes.

Livermore is not part of EBRPD; voters there have chosen to continue with their own park district, Livermore Area Recreation and Park District (LARPD), which has lower taxes and which provides residents with parks in and out of town. Livermore residents are still free to use EBRPD facilities at the same prices as EBRPD taxpayers.

The only other holdouts in the two -county park district are some residents of rural Contra Costa County who have voted to stay out of EBRPD.

The taxes paid into EBRPD's coffers are strictly split into categories for operating, land acquisition and development. According to Trudeau, they have ample money to pay for the land they have been buying, and have also accumulated enough to begin developing what they have. Their budget this year is $22 million — about the same as the Livermore

Big Pleasanton parade today launches annual county fair

PLEASANTON — The annual Alameda County Fair parade will begin at noon today with hundreds of participants vying for trophies and cash prizes in the kick-off event signifying the start of the county fair.

Spike Jones, Jr., zany musician famous for off-beat humor, will serve as grand marshal of the parade. Patriotism will be this year's theme to coincide with the nation's Bicentennial.

May Nissen of Livermore, Elsie Kolb of Dublin and Alfred Casterson of Pleasanton will serve as honorary grand marshals, and will ride in a $200,000 Dusenberg as part of the parade honoring the valley's past.

Sunday's parade will form at Amador Valley High School, with dignataries in vintage vehicles heading towards the downtown from Santa Rita Road at noon. Parade participants will turn onto Rose Avenue and disband before reaching the Fairgrounds.

The parade was organized by the Pleasanton Bicentennial Festival Committee with assistance from the Pleasanton Jaycees, Chamber of Commerce, City of Pleasanton and the Alameda County Fair Association. This year's parade planners are Lee Ann McFadden and Nancy D'Arcy, who spent endless hours planning and rechecking every aspect of the event.

Spectators, as well as participants, are invited to a 2 p.m. picnic immediately after the parade at the Amador Valley Community Park at Santa Rita Road and Black Avenue. At 4 p.m., prizes will be awarded in 42 divisions at ceremonies also at the park.

The fair will run continuously from June 27 to July 11.

Peak demands, county strike hits valley water services

"In some ways the people are lucky they are getting any water at all when they turn on the faucet."

That was the response by one Zone 7 spokesman in the light of complaints filed by the Valley Community Services District alleging water quality that "shocks the Dublin consumer."

Pointing to a combination of peak summer demands, the widespread strike of Alameda County employes and "the fact that our treatment system was never designed to meet the full demand," the chief engineer for Zone 7 believes his agency is now getting a bum rap.

"I don't know what they mean by 'shocking water quality' and I can't understand these references to 'surges' in the flow," Mun Mar told The Times. He wants time to study the West Valley's water flow, including that which is pumped by both VCSD and City of Pleasanton as their "independent quota" and over which Zone 7 has no control.

"But right now we're so short handed because of the strike that we're lucky to keep the treatment plant operating and the water flowing without interruption," Mun contends. Eleven water plant operators have been lost throughout the county -wide strike which is now into its fourth week.

(Officials at Pleasanton city hall report they have received no surge of complaints relative to water quality during the past month.)

The quality of water delivered to consumers in both Dublin and Pleasanton is tied to a complicated formula that looks in part to the "soft water" delivered by pipe line from the Zone's treatment plants, and to the degree that water is blended with water pumped by Zone 7 from its wells within the Pleasanton basin, and then blended further with the "independent quota" which Pleasanton and VCSD deliver from their own well systems.

"We have always known that water quality in the West Valley is going to decline during summer months when the demand exceeds our plant capacity," Mun says. This year it was the combination of a hot summer's peak demand, plus the strike of county employes who staff the Zone 7 treatment plant, which resulted in "some unusually poor weeks when we had to deliver water of less than standard quality."

Mun said it was the agency's decision to "hold back some of our plant resources against the possibility of the strike lasting for many more weeks." This resulted in a mix of 50 per cent plant water, 50 per cent well water being delivered by Zone 7 to Pleasanton and Dublin. Added to the local independent quota, it meant that at times over half the local water supply was drawn from wells, with hardness factors considerably in excess of the imported, treated water.

Now however Mun is confident that "we can expect to get shipment of the necessary chemicals" to the Zone 7 treatment plant plants, and he has ordered a return to full shipment from those plants.

"But it will still be well short of the West Valley's total needs during these peak summer months," the engineer cautioned. Mar recited the figures for April, when VCSD bought 44.2 million gallons from Zone 7, but pumped an additional 18.8 mg from local wells; Pleasanton in that same month bought 159.7 mg in imported water, and pumped 8.2 mg from their own wells.

The higher percentage of pumped water being used by VCSD may explain why Dublin consumers are complaining about poor quality, while Pleasanton has received little such complaint from its customers.

(The full text of the VCSD letter to Zone 7 is carried on page 6 of today's Times.)

Pleasanton council meet

Group fights tax hike

PLEASANTON — Some 93 petitioners and two council members are asking the city council majority to forget about raising the tax rate another five cents when the council meets tomorrow.

But it doesn't look like the council majority of Mayor Robert Philcox, Vice-Mayor Joyce LeClaire and Councilman William Herlihy will L yield to their request.

In a memo to Council Members Frank Brandes and Ken Mercer, Philcox said that the five cent increase would mean a tax increase of only $6 annually on a $50,000 home.

Brandes and Mercer suggested cutting $34,000 from the budget by eliminating a vocal alarm system, cutting the utility bill 4 per cent, cutting travel and meal expenses 25 per cent, and moving the city council out of the chambers it leases. The cuts would still leave $27,000 to fund, but this could be covered by capital improvement funds, said Brandes and Mercer.

The council is thinking of putting several bond issues on the ballot in November and a tax increase now might hurt that effort, said Brandes and Mercer.

Philcox said he could not support any more reductions in budgeted items or transfer any more funds from capital improvements without damaging the level of services.

"Next year it will be necessary to negotiate new contracts with employe unions. Where the additional funds will come from I do not know, but failure to effect at last a 3 per cent tax increase this year will only worsen next year's projections," said Philcox.

The council tomorrow will hold a public hearing on Longspur Avenue residents' objection to a parking lot which will be installed next to their house by Chris Beratlis who intends to build a small shopping center on Valley Avenue near Hopyard Road.

The council also will hear the appeal of Stoneridge residents opposed to a recreational vehicle storage yard in their neighborhood. In a matter continued for decision, Willow West's request for a variety of conmmercial, office, and industrial zoning on its 354 acres east of Hopyard Road will be heard.

Fair horse racing nixed by picketing

PLEASANTON — Horse racing at the annual Alameda County Fair, last year attracted one-fourth of the 400,000 persons attending the event, will be delayed at least one day and probably more due to the 26-day-old strike by county employes.

Pari-mutuel union members, including clerks, starters and veterinarian assistants announced they will honor informational picket lines set up by striking county workers.

Members of Teamsters Local 78, which includes ushers, parking attendants and admission clerks, said they too will not cross the picket lines.

Kay Eisenhower, spokesperson for Serivc Employes International Union, Local 616, said Friday that "at least 100 pickets are expected" at all of the fairground's gates. They will be handing out literature explaining their side of the strike, she said, but will not harass or try to stop the public from entering the fair.

Eisenhower disputed county figures that show the number of striking employes that have returned to work is more than 600. "At most, the shift in striking personnel has reached 25," she said.

Workers are demanding a 7.6 per cent pay raise, equal to a hike recently granted management. Supervisors have offered a 4.2 per cent pay package, which was rejected by the union. No further negotiations are currently planned.

Fair directors are going to court Monday in hopes of obtaining an injunction against picketing at the fair. If approved, racing could begin as early as Tuesday.

Six county workers will appear in court Wednesday to show cause why they shouldn't be held in contempt for picketing after a temporary restraining order banning the activity was ordered.

Meanwhile, fair directors report all events except racing are set to operate at or above last year's level. The fair will be open daily from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. throughout its 15-day run, ending July 11.

Springtown golf link's fate studied

LIVERMORE — Supporters of the Springtown Golf Course turned out about 40 strong at the city council budget study session yesterday morning and managed to save the facility through at least September.

As the result of a two-hour discussion on whether to sell the 90-acre golf course the Springtown Association board of directors has through the summer to consider taking over operation of the facility.

The council reduced the golf course's operating budget for 1976-1977 to a "bare bones" minimum of $81,000 with the understanding the facility would be re-examined at the end of the first quarter.

Even with the new budget there is a $55,000 deficit that must be supported with money from the general fund.

At the heart of the council's sale idea is that the golf course operates in the red.

From now to September, the Springtown Association will consider various ideas for operating the golf course such as a lease from the city. In the meantime, the city manager has been instructed to continue looking for possible purchasers for the property.

Strong support to continue operating the Springtown Golf Course was voiced by public works director Dan Lee while a less optimistic picture was painted in a letter from greens committee chairman Jerry Atwell.

Lee argued the prospects for Springtown's success would "dramatically increase" with a pro shop and driving range.

Atwell, however, stated the valley already has more than its share of golf rounds and increase play at Springtown would only compete with the city's other course, Las Positas.

Under the budget for the golf course being considered by the city no monies are allocated for capital improvements and maintenance would be kept at a minimum.

Police confiscate 169 pot plants from home

PLEASANTON — While searching for clues to a burglary at a Muirwood Court home Thursday evening, police spotted and confiscated 169 marijuana plants growing inside a neighboring home.

Police reported that officers were looking for the escape route burglars used after taking an undisclosed amount of goods from Bob and Laurie Smith's Muirwood Court residence sometime Thursday. While checking the rear fence area of the home, officer Craig Veteran spotted several suspected marijuana plants sprouting above the window line of a nearby house.

Officers contacted deputy district attorney Harry Murphy, who assured police that no search warrant was required because they had observed the plants while conducting "lawful business" in the area.

Two children living at the house let police in, but officers discovered the room containing the plants was locked with no sign of a key. They broke a window to gain entrance into the room, and confiscated 169 plants in varying stages of growth from atop a serving cart. A baggie containing a quantity of marijuana seeds and stems found in the room was also seized.

Police said they would seek a complaint against Duane Francis Thibault, 39, of 7569 Flagstone Drive for suspected cultivation of marijuana. Thibault was not arrested, they added.

Visitor loses $3,500 in cash and checks

LIVERMORE — A Nevada man travelling through Livermore on business reported he lost more than $3,500 in cash and checks here but didn't notice the loss until he reached Alamo, police reported.

Augusto Alba of Incline Village in Nevada told police he had withdrawn $540 from a Lodi bank, and placed it in a box containing several blank checks and a cashier's check for $3,000.

Alba said the only time he left the box out of is sight was at a realtor's office in Livermore, when he was assured that the parcels were safe. He returned 20 minutes later, picked up the boxes without checking their contents and left.

After further stops in Berkeley and Albany, Alba opened one box in Alamo and discovered the loss. He returned to Livermore to report the burglary, saying it was the only place the theft could have occurred.

Missing items include a cashier's check for $3,000, five blank checks from the Merchant's Bank in Sacramento, six to eight pre-printed checks to "Berkeley Scientific Publications," and $540 in cash.

Prices beyond most couples

Tough qualifying for home loan

(Third of series)

If you don't already own a home, forget about buying a new home.

Prices on new homes today — in the valley and through most of the inner core of the Bay Area — are so high that only people with equity in their homes or someone who has saved up lots of money can qualify to buy a new home.

FHA financing, the old standby designed to help out young couples by reducing the size of the down payment, just doesn't work any more, unless you are looking foranew home in Sonoma or Solano counties or the Central Valley.

FHA can finance a home up to around $45,000 to $50,000, according to Dirk Murphy, Assistant to the Regional Adminstrator of FHA. The most recent model homes under construction in Pleasanton are in the $62,000 to $72,000 range.

Even those small garden court homes near Hopyard Road, built in 1970 as the city's effort in "low to moderate cost housing", now go for $45,000. They cost $20,000 six years ago.

Some planners have suggested that builders should offer a "no frills" house in an effort to get the cost of housing down for young families. But there are a couple of practical problems with that.

The biggest factor seems to be that builders don't like to experiment. &There still is a market for houses in the $60,000 to $70,000 bracket; the developers know that or they wouldn't be putting up those models in Pleasanton.

As one developer told The Times: "Not many builders are big enough to experiment. They stay with the known product. Builders are always looking to better building methods and materials and without inflation such improvements would have reduced the costs of homes. But there are so many factors beyond the builder's control, it's tough to do much about the cost of housing."

It's tough to eliminate frills, too, when FHA, the agency which is supposed to help moderate income families get homes, insists on a certain amount of frills in the homes.

"FHA tells you the minimum amount of counter and storage space. You have to design it that way to get federally insured loans for the buyers," said the developer.

Manny Gorland of the Livermore planning staff noted that it's tough to cut frills in the face of FHA standards. "Carpeting, for example, doesn't really add to the cost of the building. You would have to have finished flooring instead, according to the FHA, and that's just as expensive as carpeting."

The developer said that probably 90 per cent of homeowners in the Bay Area probably can't qualify for their homes today. "It's one sick, sad state of affairs. What's the answer? We hear a lot of rhetoric, but no one tries to analyze it. I don't know any city which has the power to provide housing for all segments without federal and state help."

The federal government is beginning to make a comeback in programs designed to help low and moderate income persons, said Murphy. There had been some problems with the Section 235 program which cut interest rates to 1 per cent and allowed a $200 down payment on a home. Not surprisingly, there were many defaults as poorly qualified families with unstable income couldn't meet payments eventually. Now the program is back at a 5 per cent interest loan and a formula for down payments closely related to the FHA formula. But it probably won't help anyone in the valley since it basically works only for homes in the $25,000 to $45,000 price range.

Fallon house funds

PLEASANTON — Anyone in the community interested in organizing and contriubuting to a voluntary fund raising drive to help build a replica of the Fallon House should contact Councilwoman Joyce LeClaire.

The Fallon House was burned accidentally in a fire by the Twin Valley Fire Training Academy. The century old structure was slated to be moved a few weeks later to the Dublin Historical Society's historical building compound near Old St. Raymond's Church.

The historical society asked the city council to donate funds for building the Fallon House replica, but the council declined on grounds it had no liability. The council also has no money for the project in light of its bare bones budget this year, said LeClaire.

But LeClaire personally would like to see something done by the community as a whole. She would like to organize a fund raising drive if she can locate enough people interested in such a project.

Meanwhile, the historical society is $3,000 richer thanks to a $1,500 contributions from the Taubman Co. and Stoneson Corporation, developers of the Stoneridge Regional Center.

Park Dist. defends land buys

Unified School District's operating budget.

EBRPD tax rate is 20 cents per $100 assessed valuation, half of that restricted to purchase, development and operation of new parklands through 1982.

Is there some kind of conspiracy among certain public and private groups to buy up private lands?

That possibility has been suggested by Pleasanton's Bill Apperson and Dagmar Fulton, who point to names appearing on boards, task forces and study committees. The pattern, they say, is for Sierra Club members, BART staff, Alameda County Planning Commission staff, Alameda County Supervisor Joe Bort, Valley Community Services district director Lila Euler, and other public figures to help each other push through new land acquisitions.

Trudeau explains the relationships this way: "We make a conscious effort to work with other agencies. Otherwise, you're working in a vacuum." He feels a good rapport with other groups saves time and money that could be wasted in useless conflicts.

But, adds the EBRPD chief, that doesn't mean the planners, supervisors or anyone else are a pushover for EBRPD ideas. "Five months ago, we proposed buying a NIKE missile site in Hayward. That still hasn't gotten through the planning commission," he offers.

Finally, Trudeau attempts to quell the suspicions of those who fear EBRPD may move into Santa Clara County.

A Ridgelands study that recently got underway involves the two EBRPD counties plus Santa Clara. "Studied to death," some feel about this scenic stretch of land; but Trudeau says that on the contrary, the area has never before been studied in this multi-faceted way.

"The Santa Clara County watershed affects Alameda County," Hornbeck adds. "The intent is to study minerals, topograhy, farming and grazing; to work toward a well-balanced economy and to find the best uses and ownership of the land."

As far as expanding into Santa Clara County goes, Trudeau declares: "There's no truth to that; no intent to do it; no interest and no approaches on anyone's part."

Time capsule '76 goes on display

The Time Capsule, which will contain items reflecting life and times of the 1970s in Pleasanton, will be on display at Warren Wade's for the next week.

Built by Bill Wentworth and his son, Dave, the capsule was welded together at Dave's place of business in Sonoma. It is made of ⅜s and ¼-inch stainless plate and weighs 103 pounds. Cost of building it was $400.

The Time Capsule is the product of the PLEASANTON BICENTENNIAL FESTIVAL COMMITTEE, with items to be placed in the capsule arrived at after several meetings of the committee and a student panel at Amador Valley High School.

In addition to Bicentennial Festival committee members Charlotte Severin, chairwoman, Betty Nostrand, Bev Hamlin, Phyllis Wentworth and Al Fischer students members of the selection committee were Robin Pina, Mark and Steve Zevanove, Angie Naranjo, Larry Bianchi, Dan Garlock, Mark Tandowsky and Liz Shepherd. All are members of the Amador executive council.

Among the items considered for placement in the capsule were a digital watch, literature on the popularity of fast foods, a Sears catalog, Amador '76 yearbook, buyers guide of cars, maps of the valley and photos of present-day Pleasanton, photos of the gas lines, pictures of color televisions and radios, a poster reading "Nixon Resigns," a 45 record of Elton John, "the pill," home buyer's guide and photos of current methods of transportation.

The capsule will be dedicated at ceremonies July 4 at Century House where it is to be buried at a later date.

The Time Capsule, which will be sealed and made air-tight by York Welding of Dublin, is for the Tricentennial in the year 2076

Irked SRV residents fight tax increases

By CATHY TALLYN

DANVILLE — A group of irked taxpayers here hope to get a court injunction against the county tax assessor to stop property taxes from increasing.

The proposed legal action could possibly prevent Contra Costa County from collecting property taxes for a year, according to Al Busch, a leader of the movement.

It is the result of a meeting this week attended by more than 1,000 county taxpayers and their local representatives.

The idea surfaced after Fred Wanaka, county tax assessor, explained why property assessments have increased so frequently in the San Ramon Valley.

"Your taxes went up recently because our records showed your assessments were the lowest of any place in the county," he said. "In the last 10 years, your property has gone up in value 130 per cent, last year 16 per cent and this year 15 per cent," he added.

Busch then said, "I think the assessor has admitted he is being discriminatory to us. Those who want to join me in an injunction, meet with me after the meeting."

About 20 persons approached him afterwards saying they'd contribute to the cost of legal action, Busch said.

Livermore official opposes plan to spur federal loans

LIVERMORE — The community development director has recommended against Livermore's forming a Local Development Corporation (LpC) with federal Small Business Administration loans.

Central to Director Emanual Gorland's recommendation is the "uncertainties surrounding the future status" of the federal loans.

Gorland was asked by the city council to study the feasibility of establishing a publicallysponsored LDC to help attract industry to Livermore.

In a six-page report to the council, Gorland outlines the federal loan program and the experiences of four northern California governments who formed LDCs. From his study it appears the entities have been able to conduct successful programs but the Small Business Administration loans have become increasingly difficult to obtain.

The formation of LDCs was stimulated by the passage in Congress of the Small Business Investment Act of 1958, Gorland's report explains. Under Section 502 of the act, the Small Business Administration was authorized to make loans to state and local development corporations to assist small businesses.

During a visit to the Small Business Administration office in San Francisco earlier this month, Gorland mentioned to one of the loan officers Livermore's potential interest in the "Section 502 program" and candidly was told of a calculated slow-down in the program, according to his report.

Gorland also notes that although the Section 502 program "can be a valuable tool for industrial development in Livermore, assuming the future availability of SBA funds and the Federal Administration's desire and capacity to continue the program," there are other issues facing Livermore.

These are:

- What would be the source of the local share (generally 10 per cent) to finance a Section 502 loan over the customary 15-year loan period?
- How will the local administrative costs be underwritten?
- Would the program be supported by the city counicl, the Chamber of Commerce and other business elements?

"With sufficient desire and ingenuity these issues could be worked out," Gorland's report continues "In the event these items were resolved and a local development company was formed but SBA funding was not available, (or available to such a limited degree as to have but a minor impact), then the local hopes and aspirations would be crushed and the efforts be meaningless."

The director states he will continue to monitor the Section 208 loan program and notes his recommendation that no further consideration be given to form an LDC to use those funds "does not preclude the potential of forming an LDC that also meets th SBA's requirements, yet has the potential of being utilized for other purposes".

Gorland also points to a bill pending in the State Legislature (SB 1423) that provides for cities and counties to form non-profit industrial development authorities to promote local industrial development, and issue tax-exempt revenue bonds for the purpose of acquiring, leasing and eventually selling property to private industry. He indicated he will follow the bill's progress.

Also receiving his attention is the fact that Alameda County now qualifies as a redevelopment area due to a high unemployment rate.

No to Las Positas bond

PLEASANTON — Citizens won't be able to use the initiative process to get any local bond issues, City Attorney Ken Scheidig has advised the city council.

Councilman Frank Brandes told the council several weeks ago it should put the Las Positas Boulevard overpass on the ballot for a general obligation bond this fall. He wanted the council to act by the end of June so that citizens would have a couple of months to try an initiative to put it on the ballot if the council failed to do so.

But Scheidig last week sent council members copies of a letter he wrote to Citizen Don Savery explaining why citizens can't get a bond issue on the ballot through the initiative process.

The procedure to put general obligation bond issues on the ballot is rigorously prescribed by state law, Scheidig told Savery. The city council must first pass a resolution of need declaring that it has found a definite need which the bond issue would meet. Then it can go ahead and put a bond issue on the ballot.

Year ends on a high note for Lapinski and his kids

Jerry Lapinski, music director of Wells Intermediate School in the Murray School District likes to blow his horn if it's his trumpet, but not when it comes to the many talents he possesses. As a matter of fact, when it comes to his talents he tends to be embarrassed to discuss them.

One of his greatest assets has to be the ability to be able to get 13 and 14 year olds to work to their fullest capabilities and earn first place awards as a marching band in their first year of performing. He may have driven them a little hard at times, given them some strong discipline when they needed it, yet the kids did their best to please their leader.

The band's first year in marching had them winning a first place at the Danville Parade competition. They competed in this parade through a request from Danville after they were seen marching in the Good Times Parade.

This year the marching musical students competed in five parades and took two first, two second and one third place award. The also marched in non - competitive parades.

Because of this fine display of ability the 110 strong marching band secretely got together, collected money and, on the last day of school, presented him with a sterling silver, custom Selmer trumpet, with a special value set up.

"I was shocked, just literally shocked," he said. "I was thrilled, pleased, happy and a little mad at the kids for doing this," he said. "If I had had any hint what they were up to I would of demanded they stop immediately." Knowing Lapinski, this he would have done,and the kids, perhaps against their wishes, would have listened, but would still have given him some type of gift.

Why does this teacher get all this attention and not some of the others? The kids reply, "because he's neat ;" "ahh he's an old meanie, but we like him;" "he's a nut, but a real nice guy;" and they went on and one but always the good word was there.

Perhaps the most significant, and the answer many of the responders may have had without realizing it, was one given by two girls, "He's more than just a teacher, he's like a good Dad to us," they said. "We can communicate with him. He listens to us. He gives us good advice, tries to help us and never says he doesn't have time to be part of whatever we might ask him to do even if it is just being silly."

So, the key word which gives Lapinski top billing is "communicate." Everyone must admit, that anyone who can be classified as closing in on that "generation gap of communications" has got to be a pretty special person.

Lapinski claims none of these features about himself. H e's humble. "I have nothing to do with it," he says. "These are all neat kids." (Note he even used their language in discribing them, "neat"). "They are hard workers. Whatever they earned they did it by themselves — hard, dedicated work.

Tears came to the young bachelor's eyes when asked what this presentation meant to him. He became kind of speechless and after a moment of hesitation, he said, "It's something that has happened to me, that as long as I live, I will never forget it."

Besides his 110 member marching band, Lapinski took on 28 from that group and created his own jazz band, the first for the school.

These performing musicans also received many plaudits throughout the year. One of their greatest thrills was when they were asked to perform at Castlewood Country Club for the Alameda County Secretaries Association during their annual meeting.

VMH directors okay $9.1 million budget

LIVERMORE — Directors of Valley Memorial Hospital have approved a $9.1 million revenue budget, authorized the purchase of almost $140,000 in capital equipment and added a crisis intervention service to the emergency department.

The crisis intervention service was in the planning stages for several years and is soon to be a seven - days - a - week reality. A full - time and part - time mental health consultant have been hired to provide psychiatric emergency service during the evening hours and on weekends when private psychiatrists and mental health workers are not available.

Marilyn Beadleson, R.N., has been hired for the newly created position of crisis consultant and Roni Summers is the part - time consultant.

The consultant will be on duty from 4 p.m. to midnight, screening and counseling emergency - room patients who need emergency psychiatric care. Most of them are suicide attempt victims.

Recommendations for treatment are made to the attending emergency room physician, who makes the final decisions.

With the extended coverage the new program provides, it is estimated that up to 90 per cent of the patients requiring psychiatric care can be treated in the Valley rather than being sent to Highland Hospital, Oakland.

A psychiatric consultation service for patients in the hospital is also provided at no charge. Patients' attending physicians will be able to order the service for their patients.

Besides starting the new service, VMH directors approved completion of plans for expansion of their radiology department, intensive care unit (ICU) and coronary care unit (CCU.)

Pending negotiations, a computerized axial tomography (C.A.T.) A - ray scanner will be added to the radiology department. Two doctors are purchasing the $400,000 piece of equipment.

The revolutionary machine can scan the soft tissue in all parts of the body and aids in diagnosis of brain injuries and diseases.

VMH directors also approved a 6.25 per cent average wage increase for the hospital's employes. Directors are also facing a year where supplies are expected to go up at least 6 per cent and utilities will increase even more.

Livermore's haven of Mexican cuisine

A cultural retreat that's not over hill or south of border

LIVERMORE — The news is being broadcast in Spanish as a customer in the store browses through the greeting cards written in the same language. In the back of the sun-filled room, a child begs his mother for an apple empanada and a grey - haired women buys the only medicine she'll take for a cough — pulmotol.

A young woman stops for the latest copy of "Cosmopolitan" in Spanish and a middle-aged man picks up his daily tabloid, "Esto," to check the soccer scores.

Is this setting in a small store somewhere outside of Mexico City? No. It's on First Street in Livermore.

La Pinata is a new Mexican grocery store at 2226 First St. proving to be as popular with the valley's Spanish - speaking population as with the the Gringos. It is run by Isabel Mena — who's having a great time — and her four daughters, Teresa, 19, Yolanda, 18, Irene, 17, and Leticia, 14. The man of the family, Luis, also helps out on occasion but is employed by General Motors in Fremont.

The family-run business opened up three months ago and was inspired because the Menas were tired of making trips to either Hayward, Oakland or San Jose for their food essentials. Yolanda also was a driving force behind the idea because she wanted to try her hand at operating a business.

And it would seem the store is running just fine.

"I really enjoy it," explained Mrs. Mena. "I get to speak Spanish a lot and people who come in here are friendly. They ask me how to fix different foods and about cooking classes. It's just really interesting."

The store is well-stocked in staples, sweets, delicacies, medicines, magazines, newspapers, books, records, and crafts. One of the most popular items, not surprisingly, is the store's namesake — pinatas. The entire community, it seems, enjoys using this traditional party favor.

Pastries are brought in from Oakland every two days and include galliatas (a kind of cookie); sugar-coated terrones; apple, pineapple and cream-filled empanadas, and conchas and campechanas.

There are tortillas galore as well as chorizo (sausage), nopales (tender cactus), and menudo (beef tripe). Chilies and black beans and spices also are available for the asking.

For the sweet tooth, there's chongos (chunks of custard with cinnamon and canned in syrup), calabaza (made from squash) and tamarindo — both with and without chile.

Those who want to keep their complexion soft and healthy know to ask for Pomada de la Campana while pulmotol is the only cure for coughs and colds.

Pottery, artifacts, lamps and jewelry, purchaued by the Menas on their trips to Mexico, adorn the walls and the different types of popular musical albums line a shelf.

"We're trying to get everything we can in the Mexican - Spanish - Latin line. Now we're concentrating on Mexico," Mrs. Mena explained.

Next on their list of things to do for the store is to open a deli this summer with tacos, burritos and tamales to go.

But in the meantime, there's biznaga (a type of cactus), cheese with jalapeno (hot peppers), guayabas (guavas), salsa jalapena, nopales....

Livermore eyes gift ambulance

LIVERMORE — The good news is that the city's fire department has been offered an emergency vehicle purchased by Alameda County with federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare grant funds.

The bad news is that by law, when the vehicle is used as an ambulance, it must be staffed by two certified emergency medical technicians — a condition that is estimated to cost Livermore $8,500 in overtime pay to train its fire department personnel.

The county's offer will be considered by the city council Monday night and City Manager Bill Parness urges acceptance. "Although this will require a cost obligation the public advantages are obvious," he states 8n his recommendation.

The emergency vehicle is to be used primarily as the first in fire rescue response and secondarily as a patient transport vehicle in cases when a life - threatening patient condition exists and the primary ambulance services is not available or is delayed, according to guidelines outlined by the county emergency medical services administrator.

The administrator's guidelines also note that when used as an ambulance transportating patients, the vehicle must be staffed by two certified emergency medical technicians.

Livermore Fire Chief Jack Baird has recommended that the city accept the rescue vehicle and authorize the training of fire department personnel to assure compliance with emergency medical training requirements.

He also suggests designating a specific segment of the November safety tax override measure to support the training program and "allow reasonable levels of ambulance backup service without reducing levels of protection."

Baird further recommends the future establishment of a rescue squad with certain personnel specifically assigned to it be considered.

"This is prompted by my belief that personnel so assigned should become specialists. They should maintain the level of skills expected of an E.M.T. (emergency medical technician), continually working clofely under the guidance of hospital emergency staff, developing and maintaining consiste up - to - date procedures and techniques," noted Baird.

"Only in this manner may the rescue ambulance backup service function dependably as intended, an extension of the hospital to the emergency room," he adds.

VMH volunteers honored

By LILLY AULT

As an active, devoted volunteer for the Valley Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, Louise Clausnitzer has tallied up an incredible 13,000 hours of volunteer time since the fall of 1958 when the auxiliary was founded.

The charter member of the auxiliary has served as president, been in charge of the gift shop, thrift shop and still helps in any area where her services are needed. The woman with endless energy says, "It gives me great pleasure and satisfaction to be able to help others."

Louise's volunteer hours are not spent at the hospital only. She spends many hours at home repairing and mending dolls as well as making doll clothes for sale at the Thrift Shop. So far this year, she has revitalized 100 dolls.

Louise's husband, Arch, is the only man who is an honorary member of the auxiliary. He earned this distinction for his countless hours and dedicated work in repairing bicycles and tricycles.

Another gentleman who is also recognized for his talents in volunteer work is Oswald Hoglund. Hoglund extends a helping hand in fixing doll beds, buggies, etc.

These are only a few of the volunteers who have accumulated a number of hours giving of themselves so others may have it better at a time when most needed — when they are ill.

Receiving an award for her 8500 hours work recently at the Auxiliary luncheon was Kathryn Atkinson. Other awards included Jean Farmer and Irene Mauch, 2500 hours; Bonnie Mayberry, 1500 hours; Margaret Brown, Billie Buddingh, Jane Baker, Mickie Koponen and Wanda Vierra, 1000 hours.

Receiving awards for 500 hours were Ruth Beach, Freida Bland, Margaret Douglas, Sue Fonseca, Arlene Novacek, Anita Pasch, Sharon Renfro, Vickie Wyld and Helen Nicholoson.

In the category of 250 hours of volunteer service fall Edna Chase, Nancy Chester, Janet Ensrud, Mary Hall, Elizabeth Kopp, Nadine MacStay, Margaret McDonald, Barbara Richards, Betty Spence and Ellen Thomas.

As of May, 1976 the auxiliary claims 253 persons as active members, 38 associate members and one honorary member. In the year of 1975, the auxiliary gave 46,085 hours of service to the hospital and its patients.

Since the auxiliary was founded, it has presented $359,775.56 in gifts to the hospital for buildings and equipment. Included in this amount is $15,000 donated for use in the Family Medical Center located in San Ramon.

In January of 1975 the auxiliary pledged $112,000 to be paid off in five years or sooner for the new building "The Cove" (Contribution Of Volunteer Efforts). As of January this year, $62,000 of the pledge has been paid.

The organization also provides five $250 scholarships for two years, to graduates chosen from four local high schools who plan health-oriented college careers.

The theme and purpose of auxiliary membership is to contribute volunteer service to Valley Memorial Hospital and the Family Medical Center. Each applicant must be viewed as provisional until it can be demonstrated and established that the applicant member has the qualities and the capability to provide such services in a "stand alone," unsupervised capacity.

There are two types of membership, active and associate. Active volunteers must be 18 years or older. Associate members are interested in the purpose of the auxiliary, but need not participate actively. They may attend general meetings but may not hold office. They also do not have voting privileges.

An Honorary Membership is awarded to individuals in the community who have contributed a great deal to the auxiliary.

The auxiliary can also boast about its 117-strong Junior Volunteers under the direction of Jan Brice. Anyone interested in serving the auxiliary in the capacity of Junior Volunteer, boys as well as girls, may call Mrs. Brice at 443-5867 for further information.

Persons interested in joining the Pink Ladies may contact Nancy Berkley at 846-1244 for additional information. Performing the duties of president of this service organization this year is Della Dibley. Mrs. Dibley will gladly answer your questions at 447-2324.

Questions on the Family Medical Center located in San Ramon may be directed to Lynn Kahler at 828-1828.

CBS Special tonight is something special

By LEE MARGULIES

Elegant, breathtaking and dazzling are adjectives which rarely have any application to television, but there is a program on CBS Sunday night that merits those superlatives and more.

The program is a performance of "Romeo and Juliet" by the famed Bolshoi Ballet. Culture lovers who criticize TV for not devoting itself to the higher arts should revel in this beautiful two-hour presentation.

But don't be scared off by that recommendation. What I know about ballet would fit easily into a ballerina's slipper, yet I was captivated watching this production.

Just the sheer spectacle of this ballet is incredible. The program was taped in Moscow last January to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the magnificent Bolshoi Theater, and more than 125 dancers and 100 musicians participated.

Told in three acts, the ballet follows the classic Shakespeare story of two young lovers whose romance ends in tragedy because they come from warring families.

What especially impressed this layman was how forcefully a story that is known for the beauty of its language could be told without any words at all. The ballet's heart-tugging conclusion, as performed by Natalja Bessmertnova as Juliet and Michael Lavrovsky as Romeo, is every bit as powerful and moving as Shakespeare's.

The program was a joint production between Russian, British and West German companies from whom CBS bought the rights to broadcast.

Fair or not

They're Off! Or are they?

Trying to clock the ponies these days is becoming mighty difficult, what the with the county crews picketing the Fairgrounds, the horsemen uncertain, the pari mutuel people caught in the middle.

Staging the Big Show at Pleasanton has never been easy. Launched in 1912, the "Pleasanton Fair" sputtered along until World War I shut it down. Other revivals were attempted, but not until 1936 was their sufficient state and county interest to assure the townspeople that a major exposition would be staged, year in and year out, at the Bernal Avenue grounds.

It has since grown to the largest thing of its kind in Northern California, the third biggest County Fair in the state.

The ponies are important to those who can still find fortune with a $2 investment ... a sum that would not now get you into the local movie house, or even buy much of a pizza. The profit from pari mutuel is also essential to the State of California ... providing millions for schools, hospitals and the like.

Closer to home, the County Fair has always provided important summertime work for several hundred young people ... college students who count on that 14 days of employment as a guarantee against next fall's classes. And then there are the hometown folks who own and train horses, the feed stores, the restaurants and the local grocery. All of them feel some benefit from the ten million dollars that flows through those pari mutuel windows each summer at Pleasanton.

So the Alameda County Fair is a big industry, just like any other local business. And the ponies are something more than frustration to the long - shot bettor.

For all those reasons we might hope that the 64th Alameda County Fair will get underway today as scheduled, complete with banjos, bongo drums and bang tails. See you at the Fair!

HAPPINESS IS A COUNTY FAIR

Water quality

On page one of today's Times we carry the response of a Zone spokesman for the Zone 7 Water District to the publicized complaint by VCSD's board of directors which appears in full on this page.

In neither of those statements however is there reference to the root of all lament about "surges of poor quality water" being passed on to Valley consumers.

The truth is that the Zone 7 treatment system was never designed to handle the Valley's "peak summer demand," and it wasn't designed that way because certain Valley leaders insisted they would fight any such "total need" distribution plant. Their argument, if you will recall, was one more of those tiresome ... "We don't want to be paying for expanded capacity that will only serve to aggravate the Valley's growth."

Well, we aren't getting the growth. But neither do we have a Zone 7 treatment system that comes anywhere near meeting the peak summer needs of just the Valley's present population.

If we're going to start complaining about this Valley's water problems, then let's tell the full story. And don't forget the chapter on "Stop the Growth At Any Price."

VCSD complaint

The following is the full statement made by the Valley Community Services District Board of Directors in a complaint filed with the Zone 7 board relative to the quality of water being provided the Dublin area.

Gentlemen:

Valley Community's Board of Directors, at its regular meeting of June 15, 1976, voted unanimously to authorize my writing this letter registering Dublin's chagrin at the poor quality of water we have been receiving since the beginning of this month.

Last year, our agency was compelled to spend thousands of dollars to waste millions of gallons of domestic water in a flushing program because of the fluctuation in water quality delivered to our community by Zone No. 7. It is quite possible that the sudden and drastic variations in water quality caused by intermittent deliveries of Patterson Pass Plant water and well water were the result of well-meaning efforts on the part of your organization to maximize the delivery of high-quality water without the realization of what such shocks would do. In any case, it has been our hope that, once the Del Valle Treatment Plant was placed in operation, the use of Zone No. 7's wells would be minimized.

We now find that, although the Del Valle Treatment Plant was technically completed in late 1975, it has yet to deliver its designed capacity. Thus, the effects of seasonal "hot spells" of weather, which result in maximum water use, continue to produce well-water deliveries from your agency in excess of what we believe we should expect and, indeed, deserve.

In reviewing our records, we find that Zone No. 7's water delivered to our community has nearly tripled in hardness during the past month. Because of this, we have again been forced to institute a flushing program specifically to counteract the effects of these fluctuations.

Just as the poor water quality shocks our distribution system, it likewise shocks the Dublin consumer, who is compelled to pay a constant price for a product of inconstant quality. Whatever the cause, be it the County strike and concomitant personnel and chemical shortages, or the inability of the Del Valle Treatment Plant to operate at capacity because of technical inadequacies, the end result is a poor quality of water being delivered to our community, and we simply vehemently object to being the recipients of a high - priced, variable-quality water supply. The institution of some product quality controls by the Zone would not go unappreciated by the West Valley residents.

An added effect of the low-quality water concerns our sewage treatment plant. We are currently committed to a discharge of 4.25 million gallons per day, based upon predicted qualities of water delivered. Since the first of June, the total dissolved solids in the sewage plant effluent would limit our discharge to 4.16 MGD and, if sustained, could place us in violation of our National Pollution Discharge Elimination System permit, issued by the Regional Water Quality Control Board.

We strongly urge you, therefore, to do everything within your power to resume delivery of Del Valle Treatment Plant water and curtail the excess delivery of the poorer-quality well water.

D. Ronald Hyde, President
Board of Directors

The week in retrospect

CTA in command

Supposed inroads made by American Federation of Teachers chapters for the "hearts and minds" of California school teachers is apparently less than assumed.

Steve Edwards of the California Teachers Association has reported that CTA chapters won 23 of 25 collective bargaining representation elections held this past spring.

In addition, they have officially challenged two elections, with possible runoffs in the fall.

The winning elections involved some 5,280 teachers, or about 86.2 per cent of the 6,122 eligible to vote.

In addition, Edwards enthuses, school boards have officially recognized some 350 CTA/National Education Association units involving about 64,154 teachers, via the voluntary authorization card route.

This would bring the grand total of CTA/NEA bargaining units so far to about 373 representing about 70,434 teachers, with more volunteer units coming in every day.

Such similar outlooks, even on a reduced scale, have not been forthcoming from AFT leaders either in the Bay Area or statewide.

"We view these election victories and the voluntary opting for CTA/NEA as a trend for the voting that will come in the fall," Edwards declared. "Teachers identify with the superior services, negotiations know-how and political clout of the 150,000-member CTA and the 1.8 million - member National Education Association that has resulted in higher salaries, better working conditions and educational improvements for their pupils. Teachers want to be a part of this winning team."

Be reminded that all of the above are solely Edwards opinions and were not run by local chapter officials or rival AFT officer.

The only AFT chapter in the valley is in the San Ramon Valley district.

Amador, Murray and Pleasanton have CTA affiliates, only.

Edwards adds that about 139 elections involving some 102,609 certificated employees are scheduled to get underway in the fall.

CTA executive director Ralph Flynn, enlarging on Edwards' remarks, says that results of the "no representation" elections contain several clear messages for school boards.

"One is that teachers are solidly behind collective bargaining and want that route in future employee-employer relations. Another is, as this office warned, that the vast majority of these 'no representation' elections were unnecessary and a waste of taxpayers' money. Before the elections were called, the CTA units clearly had the needed majority to be declared sole bargaining unit. In the future, school boards should more carefully weight the cost of these unnecessary elections," Flynn concluded.

Letters to the Times

Children's park

Editor, The Times:

We would like to publicly extend our thanks to the individuals who have recently given us a tremendous emotional and financial boost in our endeavors to build a public children's play area in Loma Alta Park.

To Recreation Superintendent Bob Caporusso, for his personal, as well as official, help in making our recent luncheon a success.

To Councilman Ken Mercer, for his very generous contribution to our fund and for his constant support.

To the members of the Park and Recreation Commission, for thier backing and for their recommendation that $1,700 be made available, if it is needed.

And to the members of the Pleasanton City Council, for approving that recommendation.

As we are nearing our goal, the friendship, guidance, and support that we are receiving will insure our success for the completion of our project this fall.

The angry reporter

There are days when I envy the typical newspaper reader. He or she has certain rights and priviledges denied us mere reporters and columnists. The reader can vent his or her feelings, pontificate, needle, cajole and do a hundred other things in a letter to the editor.

But if a reporter or columnist tries to enter the lists with a letter to the editor, he or she discovers that some editors think they should stick to the columns of their own papers to voice their opinions. I think that's unfortunate, since reporters are citizens, too.

But that's just one of the things I would like to see changed in this profession I have practiced, on and off for around a dozen years. So let me just rear back and unload with the vitriol of a good letter to the editor and I will recite some improvements I would like to see in American journalism.

My highest priority, aside from better pay for reporters, is the abolition of the scoop system, which means getting the story before the other paper gets it. In the old days of big newstand sales in major cities, it sold papers. Today newspapers compete against the immediacy of television and radio and the scoop system is outmoded. It never was right anyway. Reporters should concentrate on getting the full story and the background, instead of rushing into print with 50 or 75 per cent of it and the errors that implies.

Second, there should be a greater concentration on local issues. The valley papers do this well, but the San Francisco Chronicle with 100 reporters sends only two of them to cover San Francisco City Hall. That's why Alioto got elected mayor.

Third, editors and reporters should investigate the psychology of writing with an eye to eliminating adjectives in stories. Adjectives can distort the truth by inserting the reporter's own judgments. For example, when I presented a certain matter to the Livermore City Council once, a reporter wrote that I was angry. I was not angry. But her description made me look like I had a hostile attitude about the subject and I felt that distorted my whole presentation in the reader's mind. The reporter later said that perhaps the word "angry" got into the story because she was angry about the issue. She projected her feeling into the story and made a judgment for the reader without checking it out with the subject.

The same thing happens with feature writers who try to describe the whole scene of a story. We are often left with sexist and other bigoted attitudes (try the word "matronly") instead of getting what the subject says and does.

Fourth, newspapers should pay more money. The teachers had to fight this same battle to improve their profession and journalists will, too, if they quit buying the culture's line about how we writers should feel priviledged to write for a living when others have to assemble Chevrolets in Fremont. The Establishment used the same psychology on teachers for a long time and it worked for awhile.

Only a small fraction of papers in the country are organized by the Newspaper Guild. There have been heroic efforts by a few reporters to organize nuwspapers who can afford to pay higher wages. I say these reporters were "heroic" because they were fired for their efforts. I run the risk of being blacklisted by certain Bay Area newspaper publishers just by talking about it. It's ironic that newspapers publishers are among the worst violators of free speech and the First Amendment.

Fifth, newspapers ought to be more responsive to the community. Newspapers are a quasi - public institution. It would be a good idea to reverse "Meet the Press" and have reporters and editors field questions from politicians and the public at monthly meetings in the valley.

Finally I would crusade for signed editorials. As a local politician observed so astutely in a recent letter to the editor, editorials only reflect the views of the editorial's writer. Why not show which editorial writer has done the writing?

There you have my letter to the reader. I feel better now and I can go back to work.

round the town

A delightful Georgian House set in its own estate of about 230 acres. 6 main bedrooms. 4 bathrooms. Staff wing. Stable block, garaging. For sale by auction.

So you're tired of the suburban scene. Feel that the world is crowding in on you. Looking for something with a little breathing room ... where the kids can get out and romp ... maybe a small fishing hole nearby."

OXFORDSHIRE — Spacious stone family house. 3 reception rooms, domestic offices, 7 bedrooms, central heating, gardens and paddocks. About 5 acres. Offers around 53,000 pounds.

Now, if you are on the American dollar standard, $80,000 doesn't buy a great deal these days. The nice tract house, modern, quarter acre lot, three blocks from the shopping center. Is this all there is to life?

ESSEX — Delightful period house dating from 15th Century. Secluded rural position. 6 bedrooms, garaging for three cars, outbuildings, staff cottage, fine gardens and grounds. About 7 acres. 57,000 pounds.

The English pound is currently at $1.80 American, and falling. Take 80,000 of your Yankee bucks across the pond and you could have your pick of manor houses, estates, even a 15th century castle or two. The listings in the London newspapers, the real estate magazines like "Country Life" provide an awesome, almost frightening picture of the plight of England's "upper middle class."

Handed down from generation to generation. Maintained in the finest tradition of The Empire, these manors are falling victim to the same ills that have gradually stripped England of its colonies, its wealth, and the life style which was basic to it all.

"You can't get the help, even if you could afford it," one keeper of a lovely mansion explained to us. "Taxes are killing us, the government offers no help whatsoever. The day of the English manor is fast disappearing, I am afraid."

They tell you this without rancor, even without a great show of sadness. It is simply one more page in the history of the British Empire. They will tell you that their forebears survived tougher tests. They are prepared to accept their burden, in their time.

The great majority of English could care less. Grand estates with private expanses for hunting and fishing were never part of their life style. They found "Upstairs, Downstairs" amusing, but hardly historical.

It seemed as though almost every English resident we met is living in Council Housing, or has a mother or widowed sister in Council Housing. It is the government's response to a nation's housing needs. It is a grateful peoples' payment to those who have suffered in any of the glorious wars of old, and to those who survived.

Council Housing approximates our "government subsidized apartments for low and middle income families." The claim to such housing appears to lean heavily on wartime service, by any one member of that family. These bland, two-story multiples spread in great repetition across the English countryside, clustered around villages, close by rail or underground transit stations. They are a marvelously efficient way of meeting the housing needs of millions of families, in a nation that appears committed to the socialist theme, but that has yet to find long-term answers to a staggering national debt.

And so the grand old mansions stand vacant, unwanted, unaffordable. Council Housing dominates the land around London and the other major cities. The contrast is stark evidence of what is happening to a nation that once prided itself on its armies and its empire, but that now must find a way to live within its own means, and within its own confines.

CHENIES PLACE, BUCKINGHAMSHIRE — an elegant Dower House dating from the 17th century. Beautifully landscaped gardens. Staff bungalow in walled garden setting. Paddock, stables and meadow, in all about 20 acres. London Airport 30 minutes by car. Offers in the region of 87,500 pounds will be considered.

It might just as well be 87 million pounds for most Englishmen. Until and if some American arrives with his $160,000 offer, or more likely a German with his marks or an Arab with his OPEC dollars, Chenies Place will go begging. A lovely estate that belongs to another time, a show of glory that can never be rekindled, at least not in England.

The tourists walk through, pay their 40 pence, and talk about "wouldn't it be a shame to lose all this." Most Englanders are too busy trying to live on 50 pounds a week to worry about faded symbols of the forgotten rich.

For Sunday, June 27, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be sensible about your driving habits today. Being a few minutes late is far better than courting a mishap.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't try to sell others on ideas today that you're not completely sold on yourself. Your sales efforts could return to haunt you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) New projects should be started very cautiously today. Don't jump into anything without being certain all the pieces fit.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) To gain the full respect of persons you'll be involved with today; you must be frank and open. Don't camouflage your motives.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Normally you're an outgoing type who enjoys having others around, but today you have a tendency to hide your light under a bushel.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Give a wide berth to a friend today whose life is presently complicated. She could draw you into something sticky you needn't be a part of.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're likely to be in the spotlight today whether you desire it or not. Try not to do anything that could tarnish your image.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Even though you feel very strongly about your views, you'd be wise to keep them to yourself today. Listen — and learn more.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Think twice before involving yourself with new partners in joint ventures. Be sure they're what they represent themselves to be.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This is not a good day to make major decisions hastily. If you guess wrong you could later have something nasty to unravel.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A lot depends upon the way you handle yourself today when others make requests. Being uncooperative sets the tone for their future actions.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be on guard socially today. Don't say or do anything to give one who likes to put others down something to tell her friends about.

Hilarity returns to The Fair. . .

A month of picketing, apprenhension and teeth - nashing all evaporates this afternoon when the Alameda County Fair opens once again in Pleasanton.

And though all is not peaceful yet, due to the Alameda County strike, the fair spirit will shine through beginning at noon with the opening ceremonies and the annual parade through Pleasanton's main roads.

Crazy Spike Jones Jr. is grand marshal for the parade which begins at Amador High School, follows Santa Rita Road to Main Street, and takes Main to Rose Street.

That is the signal for two weeks of fun and games within the fairgrounds gates. And for special events.

Topping the agenda today is the Maid of Alameda County Pageant at 8:30 p.m. in the Amphitheatre.Admission is free. Gates open at 7 p.m. Flag-raising ceremony is at 8 and the pageant, with Ed Hennessy as master of ceremonies, follows. The Ballet Folklorico Dancers and Verne Rolle's orchestra will entertain.

Other opening day fair attractions include the Vocational Education Olympics from 1 to 3:45 p.m. at the Young California Building.

The Marval Dancers appear in the Court of Four Seasons at 2 and the Jackie McDaniels Show followes at 3:30.

A special beekeepers demonstration begins at 4 in the Agriculture Building.

Exhibits and displays close at 10 p.m., but carnival rides may remain open later.

Thoroughbred horse racing begins at 1 p.m. Monday, if the problem of county pickets is ironed out in time. Strikers have claimed that fairground race track employes won't cross their lines to man the facility.

SPIKE JONES, JR.
'Live' Sunday-Tuesday

Photography judges at the Alameda County Fair Exhibition of Photography evaluate entries to be displayed June 27 through July 11 at the fair in Pleasanton. They are Herb Mitchell of Walnut Creek, former news photographer; Irma Thomas, assistant department head of the exhibit; Roger Kingman of San Leandro, photography instructor and restorer; and Ben Dobus of Hayward, photography instructor. A fair spokesman reports that this year's photography exhibit, especially strong in the color print category, will be one of the largest ever.

. . . and there'll be heritage too

Old adobe

Mr. and Mrs. H.W. Kolb and daughter Donna Miller look at framed picture of old Alviso Adobe, residence of Mrs. Kolb and her family when she was a child shortly after turn of the century. Mrs. Kolb, May Nissen of Livermore and Alfred Casterson of Pleasanton will serve as honorary grand marshals of parade in Pleasanton today. Parade starts at 12 noon from Amador Valley High School.

Jeopardy

Pleasanton jockey Tommy Burkes and the rest of his fraternity still wonder if they'll race at the fairgrounds track tomorrow. County strike pickets have placed tomorrow's opening day, and in fact, the entire race meet, in jeopardy.

Veteran

Ageless Mel Lewis, another Pleasanton jockey, is a fixture at the track, and in the winner's circle.

Back to nature for seven days

SUNOL — An unforgettable family camping experience is being offered to local residents through the East Bay Regional Park District.

Week - long camping sessions, July 5 to 9 and July 12 through 16, will bring families in close contact with nature at Camp Ohlone — a remote campground seven miles from any road, south of Sunol near the Santa Clara County Line.

The camp is located at 1,600 feet elevation in Alameda Creek Canyon.

Sunol naturalist Dave Lewton has almost filled his signup roster, but has room for a few more families. The two groups are limited to 30 participants each.

The charge is a modest $5 per family for the week of wilderness camping. Lewton is in charge of the many activities, from swimming to hiking, that will be offered.

Families must bring their own food and gear for the week, but all other camping needs are furnished. Although Sunol Regional Park has been closed because of fire hazard, Camp Ohlone will remain open and closely supervised by EBRPD staff.

Even older teenagers have signed up with their families for this year's camping adventures, naturalist Lewton notes. Last year, there were no older offspring.

Further information is available from Lewton at Sunol Regional Park, 862-2244.

Rabies shots today

Low-cost rabies vaccinations for dogs will be available today from 2-5 p.m. in five Alameda County locations.

The clinic locations are:

- In San Leandro, the County Animal Shelter at 3700 Fairmont Drive.
- In Alameda, the City Animal Shelter at 2043 Grand St.
- In Fremont, the Service Centre at 39800 Paseo Padre Parkway.

KNOW YOUR FOOD

Q. I'm reading a lot about the key nutrients such as proteins, carbohydrates, fats, calcium, vitamins A and C. But how about nutrients such as thiamine? What does thiamine do for me and what are its sources?

A. Thiamine helps body cells obtain energy from food and helps keep nerves in healthy condition. It also promotes good appetite and digestion. Some important sources are lean pork, heart, kidney, liver, dry beans and peas; whole grain and enriched cereals and breads, and some nuts.

Q. What can you tell me about the function of riboflavin?

A. Riboflavin helps cells use oxygen to release energy from food and helps keep eyes healthy. It also keeps skin around mouth and nose smooth. Important sources are milk, liver, kidney, heart, lean meat, eggs, and dark leafy greens.

Q. How about the importance of niacin?

A. Niacin helps maintain health of skin, tongue, digestive tract and nervous system. It also helps body cells use oxygen to produce energy. Important sources are liver, yeast, lean meat, poultry, fish, leafy greens, peanuts and peanut butter, beans and peas, and whole grain and enriched breads and cereals.

Q. How important is iron?

A. Iron combines with a specific body protein to make hemoglobin. Hemoglobin is the red substance of blood that carries oxygen from the lungs to muscles, brain and other parts of the body. Iron also helps cells use oxygen. Some important sources of iron are liver, kidney, heart, oysters, lean meat, egg yolk, dry beans; dark-green leafy vegetables; dried fruit; whole grain and enriched breads and cereals, and molasses.

Stohr, Ng shine at Junior Olympics

Compared to other loops in the Bay Area this past season the East Bay Athletic League was a powerhouse in girls track

This was proven again at the Junior Olympics Regional trials yesterday at the College of San Mateo.

Paced by Diana Stohr of Granada and Paula Ng of Livermore, girls from EBAL schools grabbed more than their share of places.

Stohr, the versatile star of the Matador team this season, ran a strong anchor leg to give her 440-yard relay team a third place 49.9 clocking. She took the baton in fourth and just missed catch-ing the second place runner.

Diana then came back to finish as the top girl in the 16-17 year old 880-yard run. She finished third with a 2:19.0 clocking, well ahead of the other female competitors and one boy.

Ng, who was sidelined with a heartbreaking muscle injury at the EBAL meet in May and missed the state meet, showed she form as she qualified was in top in both the 80-yard low hurdles and long jump in the 14-15 age bracket. Her winning long jump mark was an outstanding 17-4.

The extreme heat, which hovered around the 95 degree mark all day brothered some runners but Stohr said it didn't affect her at all.

"The reason my time was slow was because I don't feel well," she said. Maybe it was because I didn't eat."

Stohr started out slow in the 880, hovering near last place at the end of the first lap She put on a strong finishing kick, however, running the last lap tn 66 seconds. She ran her first lap in 73 seconds.

Kathy Honour proved to be another Granada standout. She took third in both the long jump and 100-meter low hurdles

Honour leaped 16-5 in the long jump, far off her best of 17-10 but it was her first competition in four weeks.

"I was off because of that," she admitted. "The pit itself was a good one, however."

Maria Anaya of Granada also stood out. Competing in the 14-15 age division she was second in the 300-meter lows and third in the 100-meter hurdles

In the boy's competition EBAL athletes had less luck but still managed a respectable showing.

Jeff Cowling of Granada ran to victory in the mile. Cowling's time was 4.44.0, off his best of 4:40.0, but still a fine time considering the hot weather.

The Matador miler thinks he can get his time down when the Regional finals meet rolls around July 15-17.

"I'm aiming for about 4:30 there," he said. "There's really no reason why I can't get it down that much."

Cowling, who took fifth in the EBAL meet, took the lead at the start and roared to an easy victory.

Another Matador athlete, Brian McSharry, qualified for the finals in the pole vault with a 12-6 effort The winning leap was 13-0. McSharry had the same height as the second and fourth place finishers but places were determined on fewer misses.

A tactical mistake cost Jim Smith of California a faster time in the high hurdles. He ran a 21.5 for fourth.

"I usually start my hurdle clearence with this leg," he said pointing to his right leg. "However, for this meet I switched to my left one but the results were disappointing. I'm changing back to my right leg for the next meet."

Athletes from Pittsburg High School supplied the best performances of the day. Pittsburg sprinter Victor Trapps won the boy's 16-17 age bracket 100-yard dash in an outstanding 9.6. His teammate Derald Harris, the California State 440-yard dash champion; won his heat in 9.7.

In the boy's 14-15 division Rory Tolliver of San Francisco was the top competitor. Tolliver won the long jump with a 19-5½ leap and came back to finish second in the high jump.

The regional finals will be held at Mills High School in Millbrae. The top three athletes in each event yesterday advance to the regional finals. The winners of the Mills meet qualify for the national meet.

Monday fair racing halted

Monday's scheduled opening day of horse racing at the Alameda County Fair has been cancelled, Lee Hall, the fair's secretary-manager announced yesterday.

"With striking Alameda County employees picketing every entrance to the grounds, the board had no alternative but to postpone the opening," Hall said of the nebulous twelve-day meeting.

A restraining order issued by Superior Court Judge Robert Barber last week banned all but informational picketing by county employees but unionized track employees have honored the lines, anyway.

Meanwhile, racing secretary Charles Dougherty drew the second full card in a row as 146 horses were entered for Tuesday's program, still endangered by the strike.

Dougherty will continue to draw entries on the regular 48-hour basis to keep the track ready to resume racing.

Previous rumors that Monday's now-cancelled card, as well as succeeding days activity, would possibly have to be shorn of several races to to the uncertainty of the meeting have been proved baseless.

The cancellation of the first day's card wipes out the $8000 Inaugural Purse, in which six three-years olds would have gone to the post in the meeting's first feature race.

Should the meet eventually get underway, the remainder of a planned-upon record $575,000 in purse monies will be distributed to horsemen, including five added-money events still tentatively scheduled.

Five dollar exacta wagering will be conducted on the eighth and twelfth races with the two dollar variety available on the first race, now an Appaloosa event after the opening spot had been occupied by quarter horses in previous years.

Quarter horse will run in the second and seventh races with thoroughbreds contesting the third through sixth and eighth through 12th.

Although the strike-reduced meet will have little chance of matching last season's record attendance and pari-mutuel handle, the fact that July 4 will fall on a Sunday will not further lessen the track's income.

"It won't hurt much since Monday will be a legal holiday," Director of Racing Everett Nevin, his mind obviously on more pressing problems said Friday. "What really hurts is when it's on a Saturday — then you lose either a Saturday or holiday crowd.

Ballistics face Lafayette

Ballistic United's Under-14 soccer team faces a tough test today when it faces Lafayette , the Plesanton club's last practice tilt before journeying to Canada.

Lafayette is one of the few teams Ballistic has not beaten, having lost a 3-1 contest to them earlier this year. Game time is scheduled for 4:00 at the Sports Park complex on Hopyard Road.

Ballistic tuned up for today's showdown with an impressive 8-3 handling of Holy Cross yesterday at Aquatic Park. Holy Cross was the San Francisco City champion and allowed just one goal, going undefe-ted, in league play.

Mike Nieto opened up the scoring with a 10-yard shot from in front at the three-minute mark, while Jamie Herwatt hit one nine minutes later from an angle about eight yards out on an assist from Nieto Herwatt also assisted Nieto's goal.

Holy Cross made it 2-1 on a goal midway through the first half, but Scott Strommer stole the ball and drove down the wing to score an unassisted goal for Ballistic at the 20-minute mark.

Holy Cross bounced back one minute later to make it 3-2, and tied the game at 3-3 just four minutes later when the Ballistic defense slacked off. But Herwatt's second goal of the game on an assist form Strommer put Pleasanton up 4-3 at halftime.

After a first half where Ballistic failed to pass well and played ship-shod defense, they rose to the occasion in the second half, outscoring the City club 4-0 to pull out the win. Frankie Duarte came out of nowhere to score three goals, two of them from assists by David Woodward. On one goal, Duarte sidestepped a defender and rammed the ball in from eight yards, while closing off the day's scoring with a 15-yard shot on an assist from Mike Deleray.

Deleray scored Pleasanton's other goal on Mark Andrews' assist.

Ballistic coach Harry Miller pointed out Ed Kinyon and David Woodward on defense, while also praising Herwatt for some fine hustle.

Pleasanton had previously played Holy Cross twice, having beaten them 3-2 last fall, and tieing them 1-1.

Jamie Herwatt slices way through defender during 8-3 Ballistic romp over Holy Cross

Braves win PNLL title

Three doubles by George De Cambra led the way as the Covey's Mobil Braves beat the Franklin Savings Phillies, 7-6, to take the second game and the series to win the Pleasanton National Little League major baseball championship recently.

Larry Rodgers and Ken Perry each added two singles for the Braves while Tom Northam doubled and homered, driving in three runs, Dave Parker doubled twice and Robert Nelson once for the losers.

In AAA play, Graham Alexander doubled to drive in three runs while Andrew Roberts knocked in two with a double and Joey Madden singled as the Doc Dixon Reds beat Swensen's Cubs, 11-5.

Alexander also got the pitching win.

A double, a triple and five RBI from winning pitcher Tim Dvoracek lifted the AA Cubs to a 28-1 win over the Phillies.

Scott Jensen drove in three runs while Ted Hirst doubled.

In the single A championship game, the Phillies, led by Mike Macorski, Richie Gray, Greg Thornton, Todd Sproles, Ron Perkins, Don Naugle and Shawn Duncan beat the Padres, 15-1.

Steve Rickter doubled in a run for the Padres.

District 3 stars humble Dallas, 3-1

Dallas' all-star soccer team found out just how tough Tri-Valley soccer competition can be when the District 3 stars handed them a 3-1 defeat Friday at Aquatic Park in Pleasanton.

Ian Lang's squad, composed of the valley's best under-16 players around, played a strong defensive game while providing a solid amount of offense from Alex Basso, who scored two goals, and Robin Dijos, who scored one and assisted on another.

Basso opened the scoring early in the game with an unassisted goal. He beat his defensiveman and ran the ball in past the goalie, giving the hosts a quick 1-0 advantage.

Basso scored again moments later on a perfect pass from Dijos, heading the ball in from about five yards out to close the first half scoring.

In the second half, Dijos connected from 18 yards out on the side, taking a pass from John Castillo to make it 3-0.

Dallas added a goal late in the game from Tony Alacala, who crosskicked the ball in after dribbling the ball past a Valley defender. Fred Hight picked up an assist on the play.

"We were much more agressive than they were," Lang said afterwards. "If we'd have had time to practice, we would have eaten them alive," he added, careful of becoming complacent. "They're a good team, but just not up to our caliber of play."

Lang pointed out the efforts of left fullbacks Steve Inglebrook and Rick Stuart and striker Ronnie Listere as keys to the win.— by Brian Martin

Finley, A's at boiling point

OAKLAND COLISEUM — Unless things change in a hurry, the Oakland Athletics and Minnesota Twins will be involved in the first cancellation of a major league baseball game in 64 years today.

That was the final word from manager Chuck Tanner just before his A's took the field in lackadaisical fashion and took an 11-3 thumping from the bat-happy Twins before 4,729 on another hot summer afternoon Saturday.

Tanner had just finished talking long distance on the telephone to owner Charlie Finley in Chicago, who ordered the manager not to play Vida Blue, Rollie Fingers and Joe Rudi even after the players threatened to strike if the trio was not restored to the lineup.

Player representative Jim Todd, who also spoke to Finley, said the owner told him, "The gates will be open Sunday. We will play a game at 1:30. And you people are welcome to participate.

On Friday night, Finley had threatened to suspend all his players if they strike and replace them with members of the Tucson Toros of the Pacific Coast League.

But he reportedly changed his mind on Saturday upon learning that the PCL and the Salt Lake City team scheduled to meet Tucson on Sunday were prepared to file suit against the A's.

Another late development as the Saturday game was in progress was that Finley had presented a compromise offer to Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and was awaiting an answer to this proposal. He did not disclose the nature or terms of the compromise, but said he would upon receiving an answer from baseball's czar.

While Finley and baseball's high commissioner were playing "musical chairs" across the nation, the Twins, led by Rod Carew, pounded out a grand total of 17 base hits for the easy victory.

Carew, the American League batting champion for four straight years, drove in five runs with a double, a grand-slam homer and a single before he took an early shower in the eighth inning.

The Twins warmed up with a run off Paul Mitchell in the first inning with three straight hits, singles by Steve Brawn and Roy Smalley, and Carew's double to left field. Mitchell worked his way out of the jam, but it was only a temporary reprieve as things turned out.

With one away, the Twins loaded the bases in the second inning on singles by Steve Brye and Bob Randall, a walk to Braun and Carew's clout that cleared the left centerfield fence to the right of the 375-foot marker. It was Carew's fourth homer of the season.

This was more than enough to assure Jim Hughes his fourth win of season against eight losses. The big righthander, who took the mound with a not-too-impressive 5.28 earned-run-average, had a three-hitter going for seven innings, but tired in the eighth and was bumped for two runs before Tom Burmeier was summoned from the bullpen to finish out the last frame in 1-2-3 order.

The A's got their first run in the second inning when Claudell Washington singled to left and Tommy Sandt, filling in at second base for the injured Phil Garner, lashed a double down the left field line.

After that, Tanner's troops went down quietly until the eighth, picking up their final pair of tallies on a walk, singles by Bill North and Ken McMullen, a balk and a sacrifice fly by Don Baylor.

Steve Brye, a local product enjoying one of his better seasons with the Twins, helped himself to three singles to share swat honors for the winning club.

Official baseball records show that the last player strike threat took place on May 18, 1912 when the Detroit Tigers struck over the suspension of their star player, the late Ty Cobb.

However, the Detroit owners fielded a team against the Philadelphia A's, using a collection of college and sandlot players who lost to the old A's, 24-2. The strike lasted only one game.

The Oakland A's are scheduled to depart for Texas on the first part of a road trip after today's scheduled game.

Aaron to return as executive

ATLANTA (AP) — Henry Aaron, who left Atlanta after the 1974 baseball season in which he shattered Babe Ruth's record to become the all-time home run king, will return to the National League Braves next year in an executive capacity, the club said Saturday.

Aaron, currently in the second year of a two-year contract as a player with the Milwaukee Brewers of the American League, will assume a front office position in player development with the Braves in 1977, John Alevizos, executive vice president and general manager of the club, said.

A formal announcement is not expected until Aaron's obligations with the Brewers are completed and the Braves are free of potential tampering charges.

Alevizos said, however, "He (Aaron) will definitely be involved with the Braves next year in player development. He will be a very positive contribution to a sound organization."

Aaron did not comment but his attorney Irving Kaler said, "I would interpret the statement by the Braves as being what their wishes are, not necessarily that there has been an actual agreement reached. There has been no agreement."

But Kaler admitted Aaron's only choice, other than the Brewers, would be Atlanta.

"When Hank is legally free to do so, if he wishes to continue in baseball, I'm sure the only club he'd want me to talk to would be the Braves," said Kaler. "After he finishes his career with the Brewers, I'm sure the only place he'd want to discuss continuing his career would be here."

Aaron, 42, spent 21 years as a Brave, in Milwaukee and Atlanta, before being traded to the Brewers for Dave May following the 1974 season.

He supposedly was set to retire after 1974 and take a front office position with the Braves. But the parties could not agree on the position, and Aaron decided to play two more years.

The apparent key to Aaron's return to Atlanta is the club's new owner, Ted Turner, with whom Aaron is friendly.

"He (Aaron) will be a vicepresident involved with player development and public relations, sort of like Stan Musial was with the Cardinals," Alevizos said.

Aaron hit home run No. 715 on April 8, 1974 in Atlanta and finished the season with 20 homers and 733 lifetime. He hit 11 last year in Milwaukee and has seven this season.

Ashe upset in Classic

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Vitas Gerulaitis knocked out defending champion Arthur Ashe in the biggest upset of the Wimbledon tennis tournament Saturday and led a four-man American charge into the quarter-finals.

Gerulaitis, 21, of New York, came from behind for a 4-6, 8-9, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4 victory. He had never previously survived the first round at Wimbledon.

The other Americans in the quarter-finals are Jimmy Connors, Roscoe Tanner and Charlie Pasarell.

Ashe had been struggling all week to find his 1975 form. The last time a defending champion failed to make the quarters was in 1970, when Rod Laver went out in the fourth round.

The game was played in intense heat with the temperature reaching 106 degrees in the sun-baked bowl of the center court. Ashe, looking weary and disspirited after his defeat, said he was a victim of the heat and tension.

As Ashe's game drooped in the hot sun, his opponent's punishing forehands became stronger. Gerulaitis ended the match with a series of devastating forehand returns to break Ashe's service for the last time.

Ashe's exit left Connors, the 1974 champion from Belleville, Ill., and Ilie Nastase of Romania as favorities to reach next Saturday's final.

Connors destroyed Stan Smith, the 1972 champion from Sea Pines, S.C., 6-4, 6-1, 6-3. Nastase eliminated Onny Parun of New Zealand 7-5, 6-4, 6-3.

Neither Connors nor Nastase has dropped a set in four rounds thus far.

Smith could make no impression against Connors' serve-and-volley game. The supercharged left-hander lost only four points on his service in the first set, and only three in the second. In a one-sided second set, after Smith had taken a 1-0 lead, Connors yielded only five points in winning six straight games.

Tanner, the cannonball server from Lookout Mountain, Tenn., thundered to a 6-3, 6-4, 6- 4 triumph over Nikki Pilic, Yugoslavian left-hander. The American did not lose a service game.

Pasarell, of Puerto Rico, pulled off another marathon come-from-behind victory. After trailing by two sets, he came back and defeated Phil Dent of Australia 2-6, 4-6, 6-4, 6- 0, 7-5.

In the previous round, Pasarell did the same thing, recovering from two sets down and overcoming Italy's Adriano Panatta.

Bjorn Borg, despite a groin injury, hit top form in demolishing Brian Gottfried of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 6-2, 6-2, 7-5. Earlier in the day, the Swede asked for the match to be postponed and even talked of pulling out if he did not get his way. He decided to play after a doctor had examined him.

Meanwhile, Raul Ramirez of Mexico beat bearded Bernie Mitton of South Africa 9-8, 3-6, 6-1, 6-1 and Guillermo Vilas of Argentina ousted the last Australian hope, Tony Roche, 6-4, 3-6, 5-7, 6-3, 6-4.

Followed by exhuberant young fans Bruce Jenner, arms upraised, triumphantly strides down the track after setting world mark in decathlon at 8,538 points by winning the 1500 meter run in 4:16.4 at U.S. Olympic Trials in Eugene Saturday. He will head up the American decathlon team which will include Fred Dixon and Fred Samara. Jenner, 26, is formerly of Graceland College, Iowa.

Tap dancer makes OlympicBoxingteam

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) —Davey Armstrong, a veteran of the 1972 Games, and Chuck Walker, a professional tap dancer, led a parade of eight Olympic Trials winners into the starting berths on the U.S. boxing team for Montreal Saturday night.

Armstrong, of Puyallup, Wash., knocked down Leonel Valencia of Redwood City, Calif., with a left hook in the second round and gained a decision in their 125-pound bout.

Walker, of Mesa, Ariz., was the most impressive of the night's 10 winners, scoring with jabs and short rights and then with good combinations in the third round in outpointing Henry Bunch of the U.S. Air Force at 156 pounds.

The two trials winners who lost in the boxoff at the University of Vermont were heavy-weight John Tate of Knoxville, Tenn. and 165-pounder Mike Spinks of St. Louis. Tate lost to Marvin Stinson of Philadelphia and Spinks to Keith Broome of the U.S. Navy, and these men will fight again next week to determine who goes to Montreal.

Tate stayed on top of Stinson for most of the three rounds and scored well with jabs while Stinson did most of his scoring with counter-punches against an opponent who was two inches taller and 31 pounds heavier. An estimated 4,000 people booed the decision.

Spinks scored well with lefts in the first round against Broome, but Broome took charge in the second round and in the final round and had Spinks in trouble, twice knocking out his mouthpiece.

Spinks and his brother Leon, of the U.S. Marine Corps, are trying to become the first brothers ever to participate on the U.S. Olympic boxing team. Leon pounded out a decision over John Davis of Hempstead, N.Y. at 178 pounds.

Other winners were Louis Curtis of Washington at 106; Leo Randolph of Tacoma, Wash. at 112; Howard Davis Jr. of Glen Cove, N Y. at 132, and Sugar Ray Leonard of Ashford, Ala. at 139.

There was no fight between trials winner Clinton Jackson of Evergreen, Ala. and Roosevelt Green of the U.S. Marine Corps at 147 because Jackson had his mouth cut during a sparring session and needed 10 stitches. They will fight at a later date.

Ali-Ionki Big Bore, Payday

TOKYO (AP) — The bizarre confrontation billed as the "World Martial Arts Championship" may not have decided once and for all whether a boxer can defeat a wrestler. But it did succeed in squashing Muhammad Ali's boast that he could whip anyone, anywhere.

Ali, in a listless 15-round match, couldn't better Japanese wrestler Antonio Inoki. The bout ended in a draw with both men declaring themselves satisfied and a few dissatisfied spectators shouting for their money back.

The fight featured prancing, jeering, and rope-hanging with Ali fending off flying thrusts and kicks from Inoki, who ended up spending most of the fight on his back.

"I just couldn't hit him while he was on the floor," Ali complained afterward.

Inoki also had a complaint. "I was handicapped by the rule that said no tackling, no karate chops, no punching when on the mat," he said.

But both were apparently satisfied with the reported winnings — $6.1 million for Ali and $4 million for Inoki.

The fans, who paid between $17 and $1,000 for a seat, threw garbage — waste paper and an occasional orange peel — into the ring at the drowsy conclusion to the 45-minute standoff. Shouts of "Money back, money back," were heard from the lower-priced seats.

The newspaper Asahi Shimbun summed up the bout with the headline: "The admission price was high, the fight low," but the participants disagreed.

Country store

Geri Goularte, Tanya Clark and Dru Morrow fancy the handmade bonnets and scarves to be featured in the 'country store' at Dublin's Eighteenth Century Faire July 3-5 at Shannon Park. The store will be sponsored by the Friends of the Dublin Library who will also offer 1776 cookbooks and home - grown vegetables. Those with donations of produce may call 828-0671 or 828-0426. The Eighteenth Century Faire will incorporate three Full days of celebration, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., with arts and crafts booths, a hoedown Saturday at 9 p.m., band concert Sunday at 4:30 p.m., and an old - fashioned political speech Monday.

Builder blames government rule for skyrocketing housing costs

SAN FRANCISCO — Over - regulation by government at all levels is a prime reason why the price of housing has been pushed beyond the reach of an ever-increasing number of American families, a top officer of the National Association of Home Builders told the Pacific Coast Builders Conference here.

Ernest Becker of Las Vegas, vice president - treasurer of NAHB, told the delegates in a speech at the Fairmont Hotel that one way to counter this situation is through political action.

"There is no law that says only lawyers can run for public office," he said. "The city council zoning board, planning commission, architectural review board or sanitary district all have a heavy impact on your pocketbook.

"Take a look at the different state boards — you'd be amazed at how many diverse bodies can affect your business. But you don't have to hold an office to be 'involved'," he added, suggesting political action through education and communication could also be effective.

Becker told the PCBC that builders all over the country in a recent series of "grass roots" meetings made it clear that they "are in great and imminent danger of drowning in a swamp of regulations emanating from all levels of government."

On the federal level, he said, red tape, delay, and expense ensue from regulations under such laws as the Environmental Policy Act of 1969, the Noise Control Act of 1972, the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968, the Coastal Zone Management Act, the Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act, to name a few.

It's at the local level where the cost impact is felt the most, he said.

Dublin man appointed Hong Kong tourist exec

Frederick "Buster" Hollands of Dublin has been appointed United States western region director for the Hong Kong Tourist Association. J. G. O'Donnell, HKTA president for North and South America, made the announcement recently.

Hollands, previously deputy director of the Government Supplies Department in Hong Kong, has traveled widely throughout the Pacific area and was a captain in the Hong Kong Regiment.

In addition to initiating and directing promotional and publicity efforts to increase tourism to Hong Kong, Hollands will be instigating and coordinating HKTA programs with tour operators, airlines, leading travel agencies, business firms and government offices.

Hollands and his family make their home in Dublin.

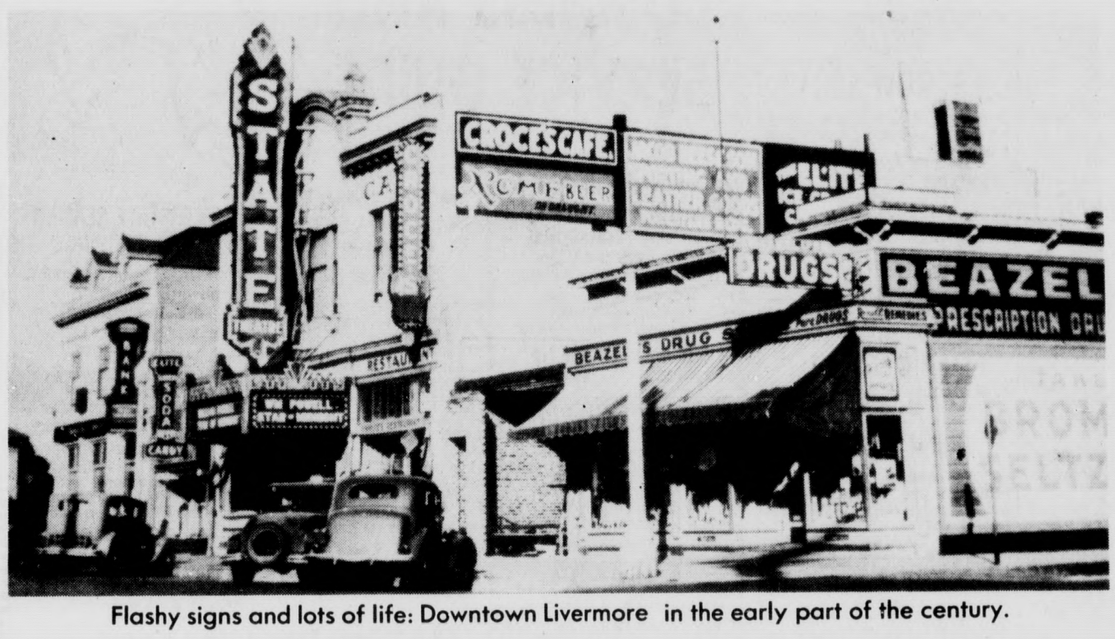
Livermore minus SAVE, BART, Zone 7...

Artist Randal Jennings copied this Twenties scene from an old photograph. Croce's Cafe was owned by an uncle of current school superintendent Leo Croce. It was a good Italian restaurant and a popular place to wet your whistle during Prohibition; the Lions Club met upstairs. Beazell's Drugs was located at the corner of J Street (where the Salvation Army thrift shop is now); this view is looking past the Schenone Building (State Theatre then; Independent newspaper and Livermore Saloon now) toward the intersection of South Livermore Avenue.



Flashy signs and lots of life: Downtown Livermore in the early part of the century.

Lizzie Oliver, a town character in her day, was born in West Virginia in 1820, moved to California at age 41 and built the first house on Lizzie Street (now Livermore Avenue).

Historical photos courtesy of Elliott Dopking

Red brick building at the corner of First Street and McLeod was Norris Dutcher's hardware and harness shop and a hotel in horse - and - buggy days, later became the town hall and firehouse. It was reinforced and decorated with stucco in later years (below) and became the police station and firehouse. Now, the city offices are at the corner of First and Livermore; the police have moved into a new building on South Livermore Avenue; there are three fire stations, the newest on East Avenue; and the sturdy old building is being used for storage.

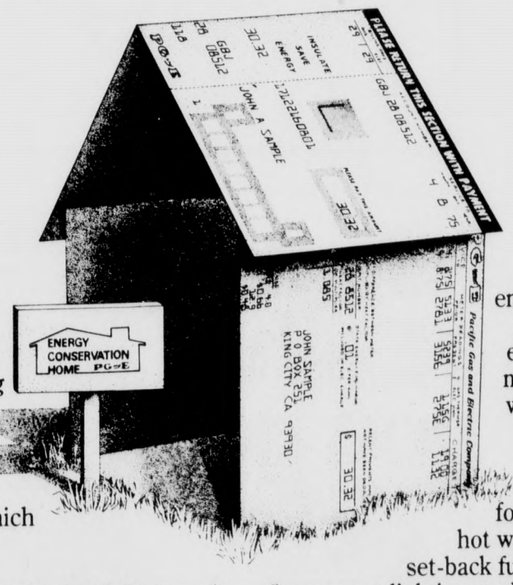
OWN A HOME THAT COSTS LESS TO OWN.



Today, when you save energy, you save money. So if you look for a home displaying an Energy Conservation Home sign, you can look forward to owning a home which helps keep energy costs down.

In addition to meeting local, State and Federal (FHA) insulation and weather stripping requirements, an Energy Conservation Home has a combination of special built-in features that either conserve energy or use necessary energy more efficiently and economically. Features will vary with each home; examples are dishwashers with "off" switch for the drying cycle, hot water flow controls, set-back furnace thermostat, fluorescent lighting, and clogged filter indicator on the heating or cooling system.

So make sure your new home has a built-in energy savings plan. Make sure it's an Energy Conservation Home.

Make the critical comparison.

1 Excellent FHA, VA and conventional financing.
The financing difference. Compare our financing with any other builder in the area.

2 Location.
The natural difference. Lots of open space, a beautiful setting . . . like the best in Pleasanton. Drive out to Val Vista today you'll see what we mean.

3 Construction.
A lifetime quality difference. Better materials better built. Raised foundations, tongue and groove flooring, wood siding, copper plumbing, and all of today's important comfort/convenience features.

4 From $45,450.
The cash difference. Where else can you find values like these. Val Vista three and four bedroom homes have it all. Check around. Make the critical comparison.

Block study program at Pleasanton

PLEASANTON — Next year's sixth grade students at Pleasanton School will have a new program.

The faculty and administration have been working this year to modify the sixth grade program so that it ties into the seventh and eighth grade schedule.

Next year the sixth graders will spend 150 minutes each day in block. The block program teachers will be responsible for providing instruction in reading, math and language arts. The last 150 minutes will be divided into two 75-minute periods and will coincide with the seventh and eighth grade program.

This means that each student will have four additional subjects each trimester, or a total of 12 subjects during the year.

All students must take three trimesters of physical education, two social studies, one health, one science, one independent reading, and one class in how to make good decisions.

Students that do not sign up for instrumental music must take general music, art, and a language art elective. If they take instrumental music, it is a three trimester class.

Principal Ron Alsup says the advantages of the program change are:

Students that take instrumental music will not miss any of the academic classes. Teachers will be teaching in areas of their strength. The program will insure that all students have exposure to some classes.

BART budget trim but it's still red

Lesher News Bureau

OAKLAND — After trimming nearly all provisions for weekend service, directors of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District adopted a $77.1 million budget.

Last minute cuts included $4.7 million allocated in the tentative budget for weekend service on the Richmond-Daly City BART lines, but directors left a token $1 million for weekend service to show "the district hasn't given up."

The trimmed down budget still carries a deficit of $6.1 million. District officials anticipate that pending state legislation extending the half-cent transit sales tax through 1978 will be passed and wipe out the deficit.

Cuts from the $85.7 million tentative budget included funds for new personnel to support weekend service.

A slowed-down hiring schedule in filling vacancies and turnovers accounted for a $1.7 million cut.

Directors last week also ordered three departments — vehicle maintenance, engineering, and power and way — to trim $500,000.

The adopted budget includes a 5 per cent cost of living increase and a 6.7 per cent inflationary increase for salaries.

The district is currently in last minute negotiations with two labor unions representing 1,500 BART employes. Some 1,000 union members have already approved a strike. The current contract expires June 30.

Other cuts from the budget include dropping allowances for 3 per cent merit raises for management personnel, a 5 per cent cut in the district travel budget, $400,000 from the technical and professional services inflationary allowance budget, $700,000 from the marketing and communication department, and $100,000 from the personnel and community development department.

The current budget totals $67.4 million, $2.7 million less than the adopted 1976-77 budget.

In adopting the budget, district officials emphasized that funds could still support weekend service beginning next spring.
